What is Focused Attention?

"Attending to the Phi-lo Tactic Tree... A Network of Light."

Is it attention's focus itself that nests waves to spin, inventing dimension—the embedding of spin upon spin? Reflecting upon the matter, Alice, it was all done with mirrors....

RETURNING FROM the Gurdjieff mystery school, I was asked to speak in a beautiful church by the lake. Being a bit naive, I reconstituted the instructions I had been taught for experiencing the discipline of attention. The practice in the "school for gurus" is to move your attention into your little finger until you can feel "feeling" there. Feeling means a tingling sensation or what I call onset coherence. Suddenly I was dealing with one excited woman.

She claimed that a big lump which had been on the back of her hand under the skin for years had just disappeared. A room full of people place their attention on their left hand and then this woman has a lump under her skin in that hand "melt away." She was worried because something unseemly might happen now that part of her had melted away inside her body. Her concern was that it might crystallize somewhere else not under her control.

Perhaps it was because I was young and expected the world to be understandable, but I required a reasonable explanation. I didn't have an answer back then. But I sure planned to find one, but not an answer in spiritual multivalent abstractions. What I required was an explanation in terms that a klutzy kid known for fixing motors in an electric shop would understand—something that would make sense to any plumber.

We need an explanation of what is human attention or conscious focus in plumber's terms. The unified field (that is, all of every stuff) is compressible fluid. Well, that's plumbing. So how did that woman's attention on her finger cause disorder to melt, like a knot in the plumbing of the light bubbles we call biology? If we figure out what attention is, then we might figure out what it's good for.

DO not buy the used car if the salesman has 'shifty eyes'

-MIT professor explains - focused eyes= more dense synapse firing

- Ability to focus your eyes- depends on getting living plasma to fuse/embed
- and hence enter perfected charge distribution (accomplished by phase conjugation embedding into longitudinal and super-luminal EMF) ways in which we have been able to measure 'pure intention'

- Heart coherence- when you speak your truth your internal EKG coherence goes UP: literally a lie detector- makes kinesiology measureable

or

-measuring ability to sustain focused eyes

Living plasma ONLY sustains implosive vorticity WHEN the charge symmetry (information) being delivered in to the collective unconscious:

-is a 'perfectly shareable (fractal) wave

- is pure intention
- -serves the fundamental need of collective survival
- is pure principle
- is able to achieve therefore non-destructive charge interference
- -like the Sufi saint whose shamanic skill is measured by ability to make the 'perfect echo'

Policemen and commercial lie detectors use these principles- but when you understand WHY they work in wave mechanics- you can take more self empowered responsibility for using pure intention.

The only way out is in

When your inner charge / plasma field bubble (your aura) needs to reach out 'and touch'..

the actual mechanism that allows biological communication (permission to touch)- is the same wave mechanics as for all 'DNA radio' / mitogenic radiation:

charge distribution perfected by 'fractal field' / longitudinal (scalar/ torsional) electromagnetic

This means in practice the wave nodes of your charge field/ EEG/EKG must settle into conjugate/ fractal / embedding STILLNESS in order to IMplode by phase conjugation (where the pine cone vortex tornado 'goes inside out'..

thus enabling your aura to EMBED / FUSE / COHERE / IMplode the vacuum / plenum of charge- WHERE ALL BIOLOGIC COMMUNICATION HAPPENS.

Here in the HE-AVE, Champs-ELYSEE , PLANES OF SHARON - fractal / conjugate phase space of perfected charge distribution..

the 'communion of saints'

'ancestor voices'

'collective unconscious' resides.

This means there are certain very specific electrical requirements necessary to achieve this connection/ communion which (as every indigenous shaman knows) is critical to survival:

- Korotkov measured the fractal / charge distribution efficiency required for the AIR - in the only places where the Kogi /shaman could make “Phone calls to ancestors”
- the phase conjugate implosive of EEG / HRV / spin liquid pump - all correlate to the implosive need to achieve biological ‘holy communion’ and thus access to the ‘lucid dream’ / ‘memory thru death’

To achieve perfect solvency into this charge plenum / wave sea of the divine- requires a seed of ‘pure intention’ - / perfect vorticity..

>other wise when you return from the lucid dream / death experience (reincarnation) you come back ‘scrambled eggs’ This is like the Montauk ‘time travel’ sailors who could not withstand implosive time acceleration- due to lack of conjugate phase coherence in their aura/ thoughts/ DNA.

Destabilization of the DNA Double Helix in Cancer

Mirko Beljanski's Theory of Carcinogenesis and Anti-Cancer Extracts

less CENTRIPETAL beljanski.org/eng/biography-mirko-beljanski-phd/a-lifetime-of-research/

by John Hall, PhD

Two major discoveries dating from the middle of the 20th century fueled the growth of molecular biology and shaped our ideas about the critical role of DNA in the onset of cancer. At Rockefeller University in New York (1944) Avery, McCarty, and MacLeod identified DNA, a complex of four building blocks called nucleotides, as the genetic material.¹ At the Medical Research Council in Cambridge (1953) Watson and Crick reported that multiples of these four nucleotides are strung together in long complementary polymers that wrap around each other forming a double helix.² The concept that DNA contains genetic information – specific sequences of nucleotides that code for specific proteins – has had a far greater impact on cancer research than the idea that DNA exists as a double helical structure. The mainstream theories of carcinogenesis are information-based and contend that the coding regions of a special set of genes are corrupted by mutations, resulting in altered function of the corresponding proteins, and leading to aggressive cell division and ultimately to cancer.³ Indeed, this view has been vindicated to the extent that mutations in some classes of genes, notably oncogenes and tumor suppressors, have been correlated with various types of cancer.⁴

In contrast to this information-based model, a physical model suggesting that disruption in the structure of the DNA double helix is a central factor in carcinogenesis might seem at the very least unlikely, if not simply off the mark. Yet there is growing evidence that a unified view of cancer, one that will support more successful diagnostics and therapies, must incorporate this physical model, which isn't new, but is certainly ripe for rediscovery and reappraisal.⁵⁻⁸

Starting at the Pasteur Institute in Paris (1951) the biochemist Mirko Beljanski was well-positioned to assimilate the discoveries concerning the genetic and physical properties of DNA and to develop his own theory of carcinogenesis. He accomplished this in a series of innovative experiments that can be summarized in three stages.

1. DNA Structure is Destabilized in Cancer Cells

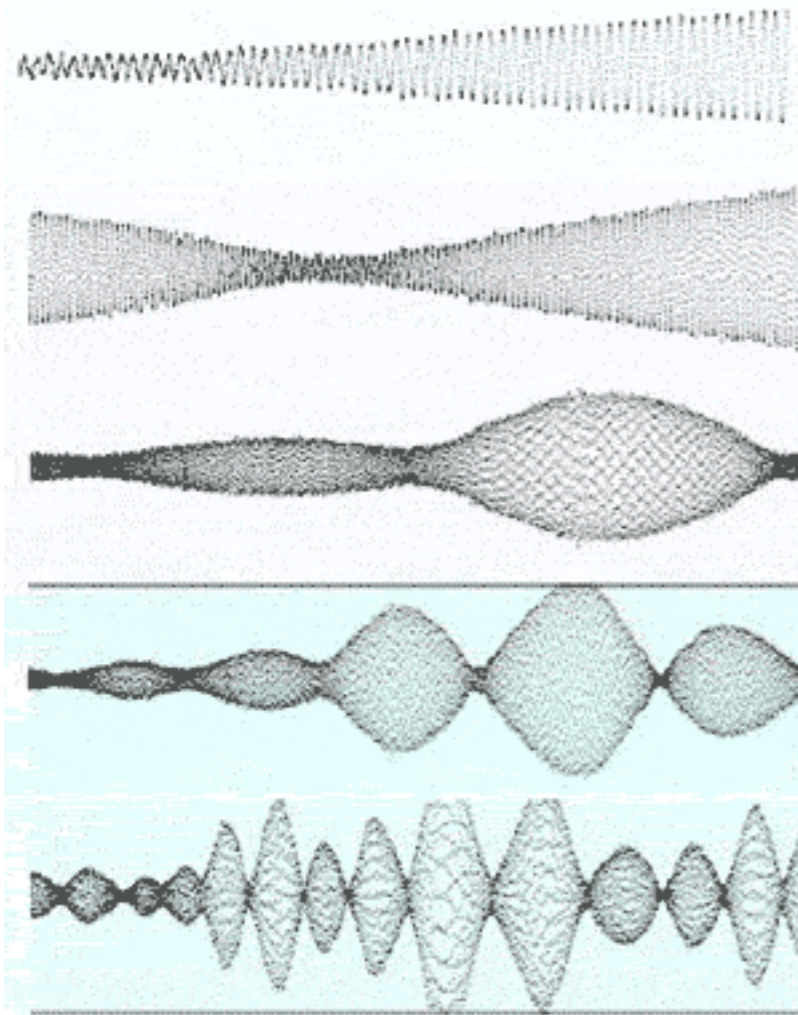

Beljanski's first goal was to examine the difference between DNAs isolated and purified from normal and cancerous cells. What is remarkable is that he addressed this question at the level of the physical structure of the DNA rather than at the level of the genetic content of the DNA. The identity of the nucleotides at successive positions along the DNA polymer is known as a DNA sequence. Obtaining this information was the central goal of the human genome project and finding the critical differences between the DNA sequences of normal and malignant cells has been a central focus of cancer research. In complete contrast to this approach, Beljanski sought to identify the differences between normal and cancer DNAs at the level of the physical structure of the DNA duplex by testing for changes in the stability of the double helix.

Beljanski used two assays to show that DNA from cancer cells is different from the DNA of normal cells.⁹ The first assay measured the difference in absorption of ultraviolet light by the DNA from the two sources. The absorption of light at specific wavelengths is a characteristic of many biomolecules. In this case, Beljanski used UV absorption as a measure of how tightly the two strands of DNA are held together in the double helix; the greater the strand separation the higher the absorption of UV. As controls for the experiment he confirmed that the absorption of samples in which the two strands are completely separated by chemical treatment is significantly higher than the absorption of DNA from healthy tissues (~40%). The absorption of DNA from cancer cells was consistently higher (by 1-5%) than the results found for normal DNAs. Beljanski concluded that the chemical bonds that hold the double helix together are reproducibly disrupted in cancer DNA which results in more openings or loops than are present in normal DNA. He referred to this pattern of relaxation in the DNA of cancer cells as destabilization.

Beljanski was well aware that the opening and closing of the DNA helix in cells is part of the dynamic of life: whenever the DNA replicates or the information it contains is expressed, the strands must be separated to enable access of the enzymatic machinery that perform duplication and transcription. In a healthy cell the opening of the DNA is well regulated and the loops are re-closed when these processes are complete. The persistent openings Beljanski found in cancer DNA could be the cause of the deregulation of DNA metabolism that is the hallmark of most cancers: destabilization of the DNA structure could be associated with excess replication and aberrant gene expression. This suggested a second assay. If the DNA is destabilized into frequent loops then it should serve as a more active template for enzymatic reactions performed in the test tube than the more tightly wound duplexes characteristic of purified normal.⁹

This prediction was confirmed in experiments demonstrating that cancer DNA replicated more rapidly than normal DNA as measured by the incorporation of specially labeled nucleotides into polymeric form. Given the exact same amount of DNA template, nucleotide building blocks, and the enzyme known as DNA polymerase, the reaction containing cancer DNA consistently synthesized more new DNA. Thus DNA destabilization was correlated with enhanced DNA synthesis.⁹

Embedability (Idealized Recursion): The ability of a short wave to embed or nest non destructively in a larger one. Similar to Fractality. See how this is IMMERSIVE, in the sense it allows one biological oscillator to enter another. To begin the process is SELF RE-Entry, optimized by PHI, the Golden Mean..

Similar to : Wave geometry which can SURVIVE COMPRESSION NON-DESTRUCTIVELY. This is a geometric wave picture of empathy and compassion. This empathic path actually starts with the electricity of the heart LEARNING TO MAKE THE FRACTAL WHICH STARTS WITH THE ELECTRICAL DIMPLING OR TURNING INSIDE OUT.

Fractal (fractality/fractal attractor): when the small part of a pattern contains a miniature of the whole pattern, it is said to be self-embedded, or recursive. This kind of symmetry among waves, permit the long, to cascade right into the same pattern in the short wave, creating a cascade or vortex or attractor. This IS Ability to Embed; EMBEDABILITY, which is the wave mechanic skill to center yourself in a wave form and steer it= TO INHABIT. (mathematically identical to compassion/empathy)

The Constructive Aspect of Visual Perception:

A Gestalt Field Theory Principle of Visual Reification Suggests a Phase Conjugate Mirror Principle of Perceptual Computation

<http://cns-alumni.bu.edu/~slehar/Spatial/Spatial.htm>

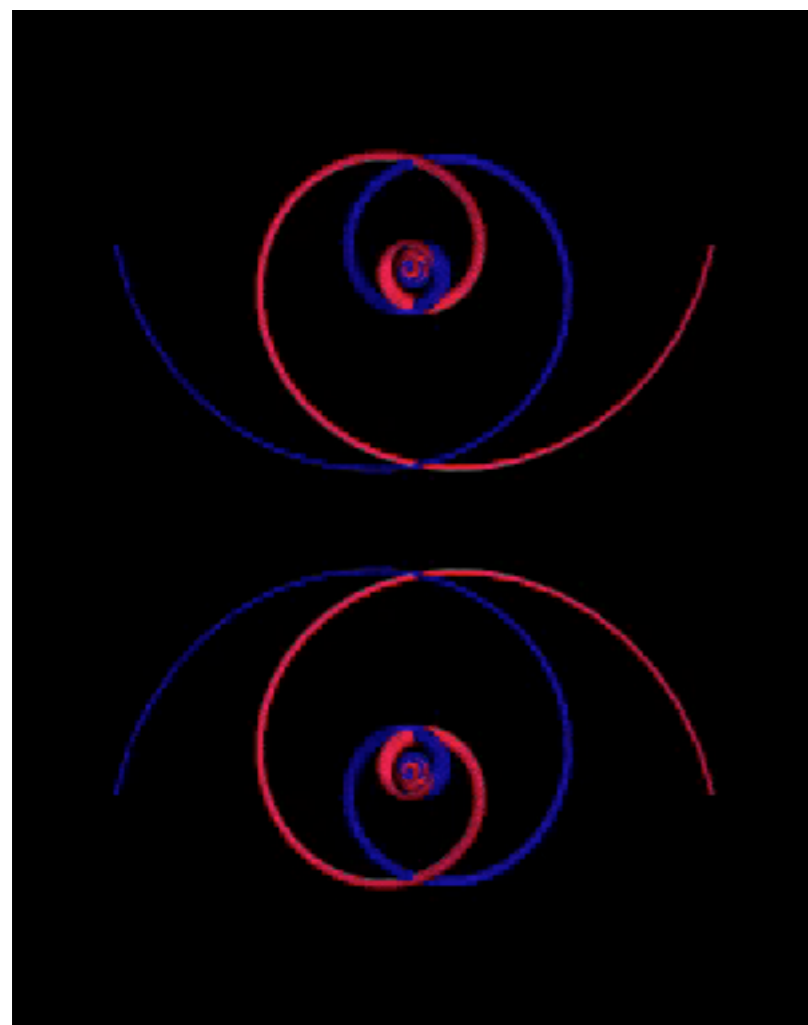

Steven Lehar

<http://cns-alumni.bu.edu/~slehar/>

Abstract

Many Gestalt illusions reveal a constructive, or generative aspect of perceptual processing where the experience contains more explicit spatial information than the visual stimulus on which it is based. The experience of Gestalt illusions often appears as volumetric spatial structures bounded by continuous colored surfaces embedded in a volumetric space. These, and many other phenomena, suggest a field theory principle of visual representation and computation in the brain. That is, an essential aspect of neurocomputation involves extended spatial fields of energy interacting in lawful ways across the tissue of the brain, as a spatial computation taking place in a spatial medium. The explicitly spatial parallel nature of field theory computation offers a solution to the otherwise intractable inverse optics problem; that is, to reverse the optical projection to the retina, and reconstruct the three-dimensional configuration of objects and surfaces in the world that is most likely to have been the cause of the two-dimensional stimulus. A two-dimensional reverse grassfire algorithm, and a three-dimensional reverse shock scaffold algorithm are presented as examples of parallel spatial algorithms that address the inverse optics problem by essentially constructing every possible spatial interpretation simultaneously in parallel, and then selecting from that infinite set, the subset of patterns that embody the greatest intrinsic symmetry. The principle of nonlinear wave phenomena and phase conjugate mirrors is invoked as a possible mechanism.

This is the picture - showing the Perfect 3D CONES- "RECIPROCAL LATTICE"

When I asked Neuroscientist Steve Lehar how he came independantly to his own conclusion that OPTICAL PHASE CONJUGATION is the MECHANISM OF PERCEPTION-he said in part, it was the auto seeking ^{39/} sensing - of BOUNDARY or EDGE CONDITIONS

The Fact that Focused Human Attention causes
(electric) FIELDS to COMPRESS-
is well documented and measureable:

In Bill Tiller's book 'Conscious Acts of Creation' (left)
see our review: goldenmean.info/makingwaves

he showed how it is replicably measureable that FOCUSED ATTENTION CAUSES CHARGE (Fields) to COMPRESS

Winter, Donavan, Jones - show the detailed wave equations proving that GOLDEN RATIO PHASE CONJUGATION is the mechanism of that (centripetal) compression - at:
fractalfield.com/mathematicsoffusion

Strong evidence suggests that is the electric cause of gravity, attention, consciousness, life force, - all centripetal forces.

Dan Winter's 'BlissTuner' invention shows how that same GOLDEN RATIO in BrainWave / EEG Frequency spectra makes PEAK PERCEPTION / BLISS Measureable - at:

1990's: MindMirror biofeedback systems (book: "Awakened Brain" by Cade) consistently shows the particular cascade of brainwaves harmonics in symmetry produces "CREATIVE INSPIRATION, PERSONAL INSIGHT, & SPIRITUAL AWARENESS". MindMirror groups fail to notice that the KEY RATIO in EEG which triggers this CREATIVITY phenomenon is GOLDEN MEAN in brainwaves- the PRINCIPLE OF NON-Destructive Compression.

Mind Mirror (3 times the cost of HeartTuner with less than 1/3 the features).. correctly describes this brainwave picture- but misses the PURE PRINCIPLE (Golden Mean / Implosion- RATIO in the cascade symmetry) triggers BLISS & Learning. Their database describes this Brainwave harmonics picture:

"The AWAKENED MIND brainwave pattern combines the intuitive, empathetic radar of the delta waves, the creative inspiration, personal insight, and spiritual awareness of the theta waves, the bridging capacity and relaxed, detached, awareness of the alpha waves, and the external attention and ability to consciously process thought of beta waves, all at the same time. It is a brainwave pattern shared by people in higher states of consciousness regardless of their philosophy, theology or meditation technique. This brainwave pattern can be found during "peak experience" and in all forms of creativity and high performance. The awakened mind is also the "ah-ha," appearing at the exact instant of solving the problem, or getting the insight."

A Healthy Heart Is a Fractal Heart

By Barry A. Cipra (medical evidence of the "HeartMath MISTAKE")

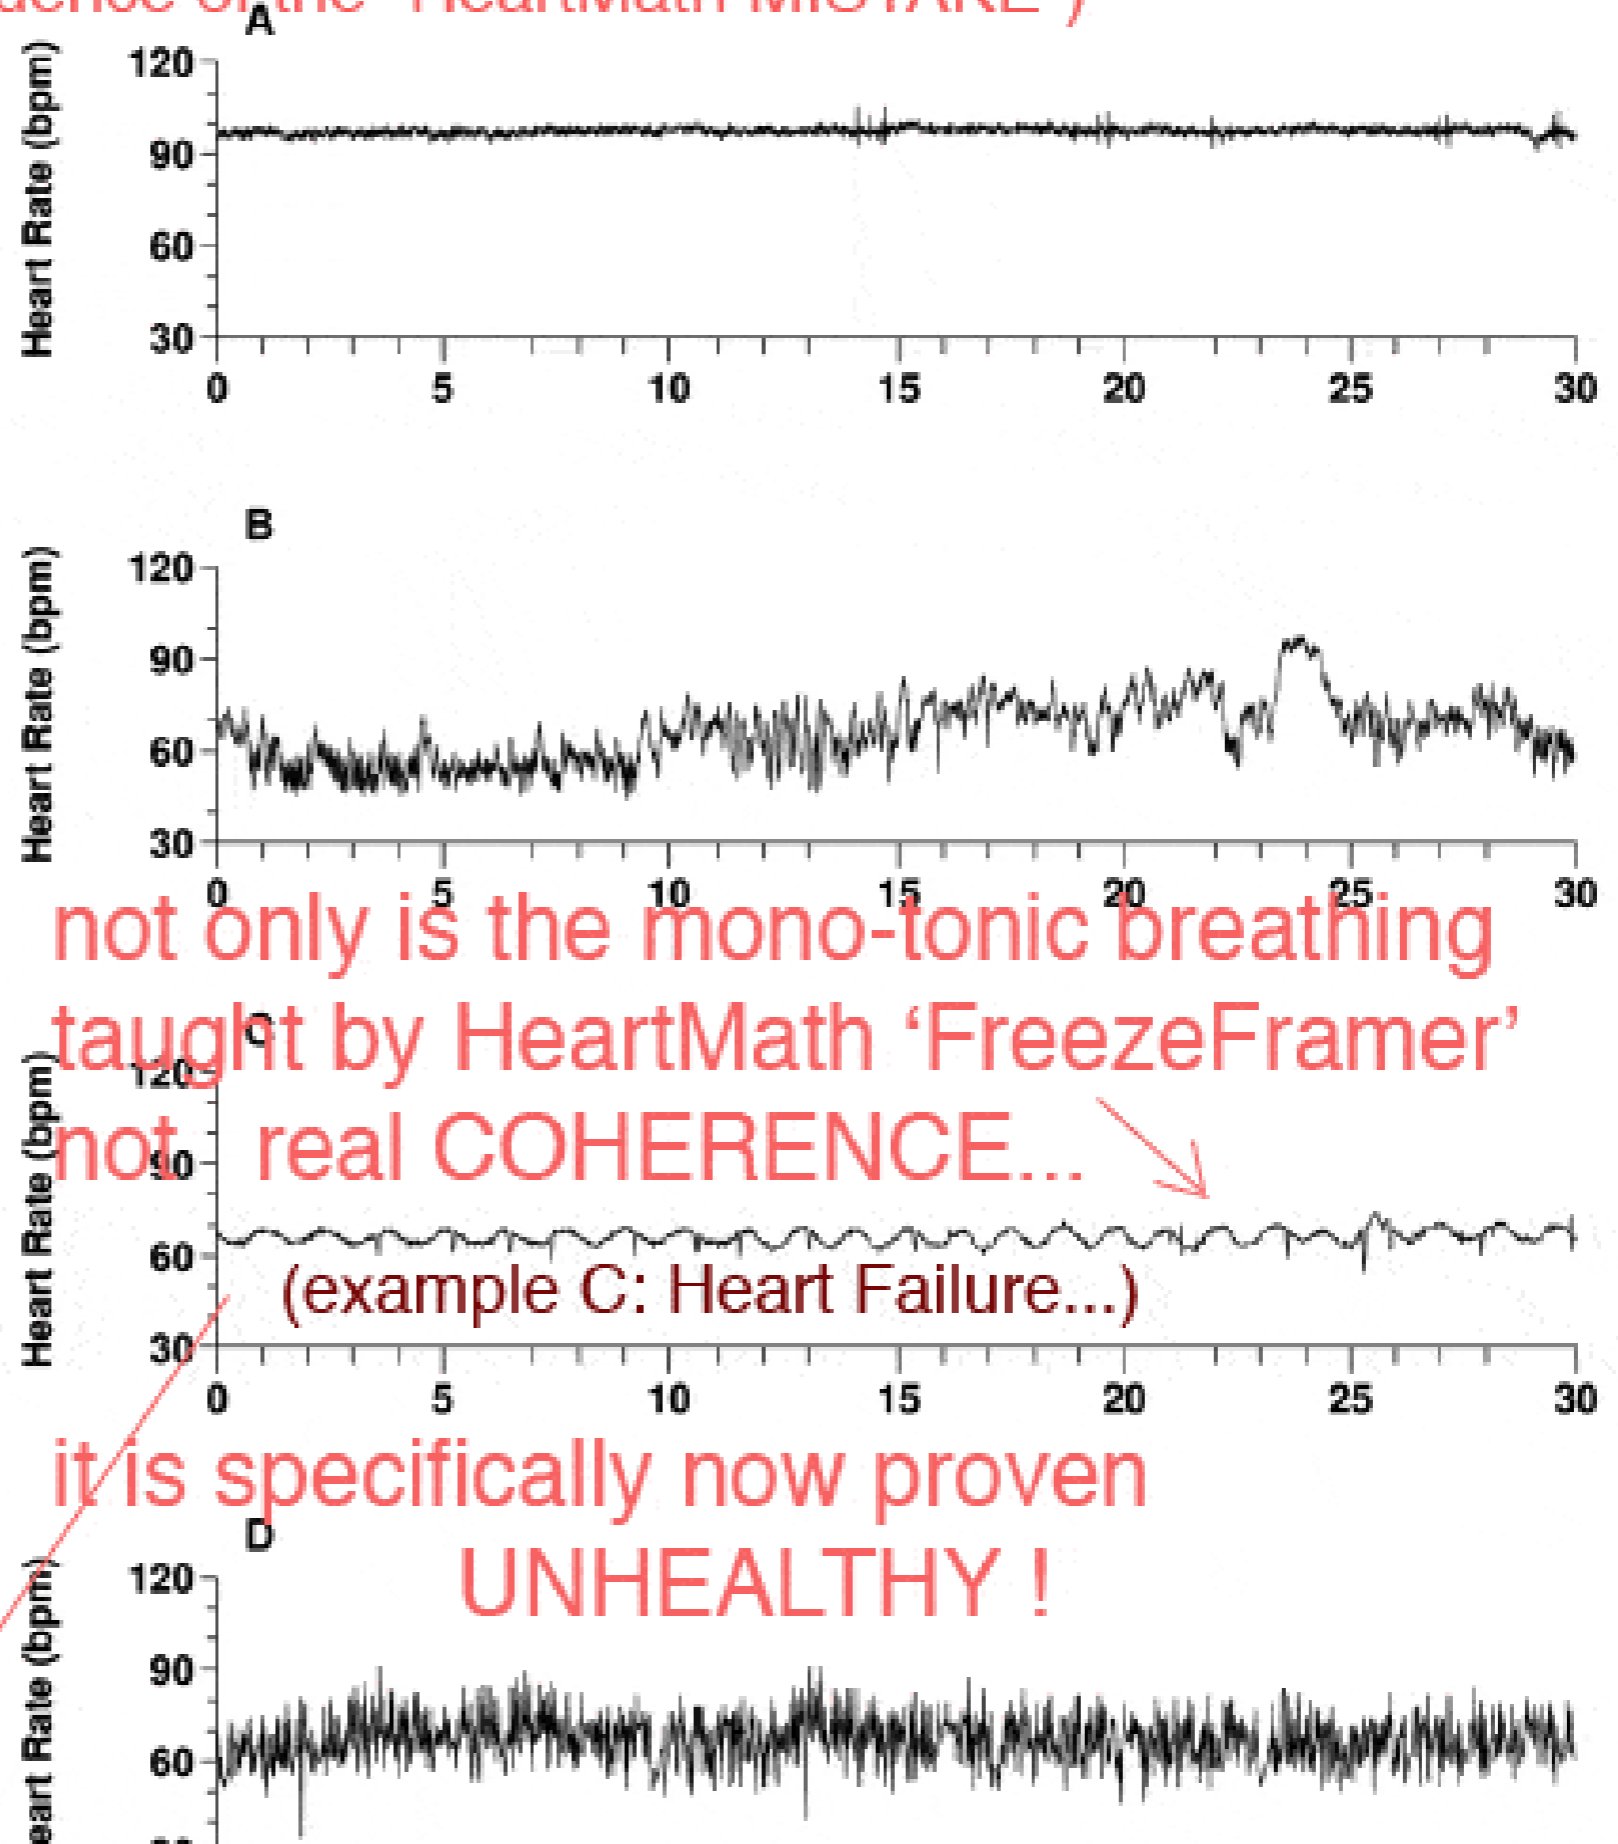

*I have ideas and reasons,
Know theories in all their parts,
And never reach the heart.*

—Fernando Pessoa

When you go to the doctor's office, one of the first things they do is jot down your blood pressure and pulse rate. According to Ary Goldberger of Harvard University, they might do well to include another number: your heartbeat's fractal dimension.

Goldberger spoke on the role of fractal dynamics in physiology at the SIAM 2003 Annual Meeting, held June 16–20 in Montreal. Careful analysis of heartbeat time-series could give cardiologists new diagnostic tools in the battle against heart disease. Similar analyses of brain waves and stride length in walking could give researchers new insights into such conditions as epilepsy and Parkinson's disease.

The heart is part of a large feedback system whose dynamics are nonlinear, nonstationary, and multiscale, Goldberger observes. As mathematicians well know, even simple nonlinear rules can lead to complex behavior—and the rules governing the heart are hardly simple. "It's an incredibly complicated system," Goldberger says. Consequently, the healthy heartbeat "is one of the most complex signals in nature."
